Over 400 years ago St. Ignatius of Loyola knelt at the feet of Pope Paul III to receive the decree which was to approve a new religious body, the Society of Jesus. That the blessing of God was upon this man's efforts is evidenced by the continued growth of the Society. We of the twentieth century still benefit from this Society, whose freedom and flexibility have permitted her to adapt to the needs and changing circumstances of each succeeding generation. Such a heritage demands recognition. Therefore on this quadracentenial anniversary of the death of St. Ignatius of Loyola we dedicate this work to the founder of the Society of Jesus, hoping that in some manner we have given expression to his educational and religious principles.

In 1491 in the castle of Loyola in Spain

there was born a man who left a deep and lasting impression on the life and growth of the Catholic Church. His name was Ignatius Loyola. As a youth he served as a page in the court of Ferdinand and Isabella; there he became well versed in the chivalry of his age. Not choosing to follow the clerical life for which he had been destined, he devoted himself to the arts of war. Small and fierce in temper, he was well suited to an army career. Then, during the French attack upon the fortress of Pampeluna, he was wounded. Forced to lay aside his arms, this gallant Spanish knight lay in a dismal castle for many months. To such a man of action this confinement was worse than imprisonment. The physical pain he could bear; but his restless mind craved for nourishment. Small satisfaction was awarded him in a Life of Christ and a popular Flowers of the Saints. To these books he turned, at first disheartedly, afterwards eagerly. Touched by the heroism of the saints and inspired by the heights to which these men — popes, martyrs, scholars, missionaries — had attained, Ignatius cried out, "What these men have done, I can with the Grace of God do." Though his conversion was complete, twenty years were spent completing the plan for his life's work. Following a general confession at the Benedictine sanctuary of Moonsterrat and eleven months of prayer and fasting in the cave of Manresa, he journeyed to the Holy Land. When he returned to Europe, he began his studies of Latin; in 1535 he completed his philosophy and theology at the University of Paris. In the preceeding year he and six companions had pronounced their vows of poverty, chastity, and obedience. Unable to fulfill a vow to go to Palestine, they placed themselves at the disposal of the Holy Father. Pope Pius III in 1540 approved a preliminary draft of a constitution for the group which was to be known as the Society of Jesus. Ignatius was elected its general; he continued to govern that Society until his death on July 31, 1556. Thus passed the years of the life of Ignatius of Loyola. What has passed during the year at Creighton?

CREIGHTON

THE SCHOOL YEAR of 1955-56 was perhaps no different for most schools than any other year. It was a year of success stories and of failures. It was a year of increased enrollment, of building and advancement, a year fraught with the ever recurring problem of insufficient class rooms. It was a year of confusion for some freshmen, a year of adjustment for others. It might have been a year which saw the school, undertaking the difficult task of educating our youth, rewarded with a grant. Yes, without a doubt for most schools it was a normal year.

Most of these things also occurred at Creighton. But something else was taking place here and at all Jesuit institutions. For it was the four hundredth anniversary of the death of the founder of the Society of Jesus, St. Ignatius of Loyola. What is important about this? Nothing, really. But it is rather important that so many years after a man has passed away the system which he initiated is still surviving. It is important that 400 years after his death, one can still find men firmly adhering to the religious and educational ideals of Ignatius.

Each of us here at Creighton has been influenced by this man. We have been trained to think, to judge, and to act according to right principles. We have been taught "the best that has ever been known and thought in the world." We have made friends, joined with others in activities, attended games and dances — these too are part of an education. In the principles of Ignatius we have learned the meaning and value of life; with these principles before us, we entered into the activities of the school year.

Unposed testimony of the normal attitude in the library.

On a hot day in July of 1955 the first real event of the school year occurred; in the short span of eight hours three old buildings ceased to be and work had begun on the new men's dormitory, Degleman Hall, and the student's union center. This million dollar project, a tall gleaming stone structure of five stories, is financed by the University with the aid of a government loan. The hall will house some 194 students; the student center will have dining facilities to feed 500. This proud architectural dream stands as a symbol of the Reverend Francis Degleman who, as student counselor, strove to instill in the hearts of his many students a deep understanding of the heritage which is theirs as Catholics and a fuller understanding of the great benefits of a liberal education.

Immediately upon registration, the little stories that make up everyday life began to take form. This year Creighton showed a substantial increase in enrollment. By the time Mr. Williams, the registrar, had counted up all the heads over 2600 students were enrolled, almost twice the total for ten years ago in 1945.

In October the campus radio station, KOCU, celebrated its eighth birthday. The station, which started with a home built transmitter in 1948, now offers a full day's program with the latest in news and records. Graduates of the station came back in large numbers to testify to the success which their association with KOCU has brought them.

Returning students found a real shocker in the library situation. Friendly little notes to the students appeared on all the tables requesting them to keep silence and above all not to leave their trademark on the furniture. Periodically, there was a removal of the more boisterous elements of the library. Students actually checked out their books this year; and many bitter students have learned that unless books are returned and fines paid, they would cease to be desirable members of their respective classes.

Behind every man there is a woman.

No student would miss the President's Convocation . . .

or the Mass of the Holy Ghost in St. Cecelia's Cathedral.

In the marble halls of St. Cecelia's Cathedral on a rainy morning in October, Archbishop Gerald Bergan celebrated a solemn votive Mass of the Holy Ghost to begin the school year. The Reverend Raymond Bishop's sermon, in which our lives were compared to the weave of a delicate cloth, illustrated how students are shaped through various influences of college and university life. "The languages," he said, "in red and blue emphasize a fine culture; the pastels of music and art lend dignity to the pattern. Philosophy ties the fibers together. Carefully you work weaving strong and slender threads into the wisdom of God." Father Bishop's words were an explication of the underlying theme of Ignation education — all actions must lead one to God.

That afternoon in the comfort of Omaha's civic auditorium the student body and faculty enjoyed one of the most pleasant convocations in years. Bob Reily knocked the students back in their seats when he requested a donation of one dollar per student on behalf of the United Fund campaign. That $2548 was collected shows that the work of the Red Feather and Red Cross was appreciated. Most of this money, however, came from the faculty; the colleges of arts and commerce gave the poorest showing — 18.5 cents per student. But to get back to the convocation. The main feature of the afternoon was the honoring of Mr. Puls, director of the department of speech, for his thirty-two years of service to the University. Mr. Puls, a man of strong religious convictions and a kind, interested friend, has always had a word of encouragement for the poor student speaker.

A typical Monday morning at Creighton.

October had its bleak moments. A small notice appeared in the Creightonian; for all its simple sound, the notice had sinister implications. "In an effort to ease the parking problem, a student parking committee has been formed with Mr. Paul Sorrentino as faculty moderator." From this beginning a gigantic problem grew and unfolded. First it was the matter of a special lots and distinguishing stickers for faculty members. There were occasional fines and a student committee with Jim Heaton of the School of Law as judge settled problems regarding students who, late for class, parked in restricted zones. Nothing to get worried about. But out of the dismal sky in February a stridant blast came from the Dean of Men's office. "Mobile Laws Altered" read the article in the Creightonian. Every student — man, woman, prepster — needed a sticker for his car and was to park in an assigned lot or suffer the consequences. Students contemplated driving to school, taking a bus from their assigned parking lot, and finally walking to the top floor of the administration building for their classes. The agents of the parking committee scoured the lots for violaters. Each Monday, long queues of violaters formed at the Dean of Men's office where fines of one dollar were paid following a violation. The fine doubled each week it wasn't paid; if not paid by the third Monday the student had to be cleared by the Dean of Men to continue as a student at the University. The parking situation has certainly improved, although to some the remedy seemed sort of underhanded.

The instigator.

If you own a car, there are one or two minor forms which you must fill out.

A Homecomeing to end all Homecomings brought a hearty response from Creighton students. First to feel the effects were the Freshmen, who walked into Freshman orientation one day to be greeted with a beanie given to him by an upperclassman. Some of the jebbies also went freshmen and exchanged their birettas for little blue beanies. Wednesday of Homecoming week students, dressed in nightgowns, bermuda shorts, or what have you boarded the Creighton Limited and sped off to a night of sock hopping. The following night many spirited students braved the icy blasts of December to join in a wild snake dance which weaved its way through the corridors of the ancient Administration building.

These students found no shortage of toppers.

Someone had cold legs that day.

Classes were dismissed at 11:00 o'clock on Friday so that all students might participate in the parade, as spectators if not actively. Considering the time of the year, there were a great many floats. Top prize went to the Zips. The dedication of Degleman Hall climaxed the afternoon. While many students wearily trudged home to prepare for the evening basketball game and dance, others assembled in the stadium for pushball and football contests. That evening Coach Tommy Thomsen's Blue Jays obliged the eager fans by trouncing Buena Vista. At 1:30 a.m. the next morning as the last student left Peony Park Homecoming was officially over.

The color gaurd led the parade down 16th street.

Having passed the developmental stage, Alpha Sigma Nu has blossomed forth into the strongest purveyor of culture on the campus. The season begins for the honor society with the initiation of thirty-two men who have been selected for their service, loyalty, and scholarship. Striving to raise the aesthetic and intellectual level of the campus, a coffee forum was initiated in "Ye Olde Beanery." Free coffee, the opinion of well known campus intellectuals, and irrelevant remarks by others present provide the evenings entertainment. This all goes to prove that conversation is not dead.

A coffee hour which followed the Ambassador's lecture gave those who attended a chance to mingle with one another while three senoritas serenaded the Ambassador.

The President of the University was on hand to greet the Ambassador when he arrived in Omaha.

All who attended the dinner given to honor the Ambassador had an opportunity to meet him personally.

Preceding the lecture, the Fathers discussed with the Ambassador major international issues.

Continuing its policy of presenting to the students and to Omaha an annual lecture of cultural and political import, Alpha Sigma Nu this year invited the Spanish Ambassador Senior Don Jose Maria de Aretiza, who spoke on the role of Spain in the defense of the free world. Presenting a decisive lecture to a packed crowd at Joslyn Memorial Museum, the Ambassador lived up to all expectations. He gave to all those present a true appreciation of the spirit and heritage of the Spanish nation. At the close of the lecture, the Very Reverend Carl M. Reinert presented the Ambassador with the University's distinguished service award. That evening at a dinner given by the members, the Ambassador's off the cuff remarks offered a further clarification of the government's relation to Church and industry.

Most outstanding event of the year was the $14,000,000 building plan announced by the President of the University. The kick-off drive of this major building and expansion program, the first of its kind since the construction of the Administration building in 1929, is a campaign for $1,750,000 to underwrite the initial $3,193,000 phase of a ten-year program. Major parts of the first three-year plan are a $659,000 men's dormitory, a $474,000 student center, and a $1,550,000 plant for the Creighton University High School. The rest of these funds will rejuvenate the present high school classrooms for arts and commerce facilities. All rejoiced at this pleasant news, and fears that classes next year would be held in broom closets and boiler rooms subsided for the moment. The best idea of the plan can be seen in Father Reinert's words, "Creighton University must plan boldly for the future if we are to continue to give the kind of educational program demanded by the increased enrollment and the growth of the Omaha area."

Excellent weather made the construction of Degleman Hall proceed at a rapid pace.

Perhaps bigger and more beautiful buildings will grace the campus, but none will rival the quiet serenity of the observatory.

Gamma Pi Epsilon, national Jesuit honor society.

Father Reinert pointed out that many of the present buildings are antiquated, a fact to which all can give assent. In the future a new library, a new medical school center, another men's dormitory and a women's dormitory are envisioned. A science building, commerce school, little theater, and finally funds for the faculty development research and student scholarships are also planned. No one can question the need for such work; at the same time it is certainly evident that all the projects are worth while.

This is how aspiring Einstein's spend their time.

In conjunction with the expansion program the President announced the formation of a Greater Creighton Committee. Some 500 leading business and civic leaders throughout the country were asked to participate. Morris E. Jacobs, president of Bozell & Jacobs, Incorporated, for many years a member of the Creighton Board of Lay Regents, will head the various campaign divisions to be organized in Omaha. He is in charge of the first phase of the Creighton ten-year fourteen million dollar development program. The function of the Committee will be to consider the problems in the developmental program. Initiating the drive was a lecture by Cardinal Spellman who spoke on the role of the Catholic school in today's field of education. The group also had the honor of hearing an address by General Lucius D. Clay who was awarded an honorary degree. The three day meeting provided the impetus to the drive as the Committee embarked upon an era of lasting benefit to the University.

I thought they told me that an infinite series was impossible.

The spires of St. John's offer welcome to Creighton students.

An annual policy of The Blue Jay is to devote a section of the yearbook to give credit to seniors who will graduate that year. The desire of the editor of the yearbook is to give recognition to persons who have outstanding scholastic ability, who have taken an active part in the various organizations of their college, and who have shown constant service to the University. Since this year we are dedicating The Blue Jay to the religious and educational ideals of St. Ignatius of Loyola, it is only proper that the students here honored be those who have aimed at and achieved the high standards set by St. Ignatius himself. Therefore, at the request of the editor the deans of each school have selected two seniors, either male or female, whom they feel represent the caliber of student a Jesuit university should produce. It is with pleasure, then, that we present this year's twelve outstanding seniors.

It is hard to achieve an honest critical self-evaluation of something which one has worked on for over nine months. Flaws of the whole work fade into the gackground when one sees only the parts. It is true that this yearbook is much like most yearbooks in format; nevertheless, we have attempted to achieve a book which would honestly chronicle the year at Creighton. We have tried to avoid the universalized snapshot photography so characteristic of college annuals. We think that there is a strong continuity throughout the book. The staff fully realizes that in some aspects the yearbook is weak, but we are sure no one will deny that it has many good points.

Without the continual help of Mr. Wallace Hurley and Faunt Smith of the Hurley Company, Tom Pickering of Rolland Studio, and many of the faculty who like Father Linn gave invaluable assistance this book would not be possible. To all who helped — thanks.

To our readers — may your expectations be fulfilled.

Credo of Creighton

We believe in God.

We believe in the personal dignity of man.

We believe that man has certain rights which come from God and not from the State.

We therefore are opposed to all forms of dictatorship holding that the "total man" (totalitarianism) belongs to the State.

We believe in the sanctity of the home—the basic unit of society.

We believe in the natural right of private property, but likewise that private property has its social obligations.

We believe that Labor has not only its rights but also obligations.

We believe that Capital has not only its rights but also obligations.

We are vigorously opposed to all forms of "racism"—persecution or intolerance because of race.

We believe that liberty is a sacred thing, but that law, which regulates liberty, is a sacred obligation.

We believe in inculcating all the essential liberties of American Democracy and take open and frank issue with all brands of spurious "democracy".

We believe, briefly, in the teachings of Christ, who held that morality must regulate the personal, family, economic, political and international life of men if civilization is to endure.
